Osgood Students Greet Ground Hog Day With Joy

By Joanne Young

The pupils and teachers of the Joseph Osgood School traditionally celebrate Groundhog Day with a joyous round of songs, games and a spelling bee.

On Feb. 2, the day began with the paean "Glory, glory to the Groundhog," and the children, dressed in shades of brown and black, displayed art work, told stories and made their predictions based on the sunny day. The sun guaranteed 40 more days of winter, a not unfamiliar New England forecast.

In the cafeteria, "groundhog" food was served. A stuffed groundhog held a place of honor in each classroom. Pictures and accompanying stories were displayed in the halls by Cyndy MacIvor, Cheryl Smith, Jennifer Aaron, Stephen Ford, Jennifer McAuliffe and Dennis Jones.

After qualifying spelling rounds in grades 1 to 3, the winners received the grand prize of a Groundhog T-shirt. Jack Creamer, Principal of Joseph Osgood School, called the spelling bee in the open space classroom. Winner in the first grade was Chris Heintz, in the second Jay Staunton and in third, Holly Pompeo.

At recess, "groundhog" Libby Wood cavorted about the playground dancing with the children as they sang "Today the Prophet Comes" to the tune of "Glory, Glory Hallelujah". Ann Pompeo designed and sewed the furry groundhog costume which Libby wore.

You cannot convince the Joseph Osgood children that the weather prediction of the groundhog is suspect. Despite the wet blanket assertion that the groundhog is right only 28 per cent of the time. The ebullient students maintain that the animal is more accurate than the U.S. Weather Bureau. They take their holiday spirit seriously and will continue to support their predictions with this eagerly awaited annual celebration.

Nursery

Parents Host Pasta Supper

The Nursery School Parents Committee of the Center, under direction of Judy Powell, hosted a spaghetti supper recently. The 100 guests included pre-schoolers, siblings and parents. To the gustatory delight of all, Ed Jacome, father of Tiffany and Christine Jacome, and husband of committee member Eileen Jacome, prepared the gallons of sauce and pounds of spaghetti necessary to feed so large a group. "It really was fun" says Ed. "There was plenty of pasta for everyone." He totaled the amounts to include 16 lbs. of spaghetti, 15 lbs. of meat and six gallons of homemade sauce. The rest of the Committee members provided salads, bread, wine, dessert and coffee.

Raffles for gift certificates to the Wine and Cheese Shop and for a Toyland shopping spree were won by Abigail Adams and Peter Collins Jr., respectively.

Oriental Rug Class At Center

Mary Kelley will teach a course leading to the completion of an Oriental rug of traditional design at the Community Center. The course will be conducted on Tuesdays from 9 a.m. - noon beginning Monday, Feb. 12 for five weeks. Call Judy Volungis at 383-0752 for information. Registration will be extended to Feb. 9, from 9 a.m. - noon at the Center or by mail.

Need some help with your tax returns? Jack Conroy, attorney and tax specialist, will conduct a workshop on Thursday, Feb. 8, from 8-9:30 p.m. at the Center. Conroy is a member of the Board of Directors of the Center and has conducted a successful workshop in Estate Planning for the Membership.

By popular request he will repeat his presentation on May 8.

A bus trip to the Quincy Market in Boston will head the list of exciting trips planned by the Program Committee of the Center. The trips all feature an excursion and lunch combination and reservations must be made in advance by calling the Community Center or by notifying the individuals in charge. The trip to Quincy Market will run from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Wednesday Feb. 14. It will include lunch at the Proud Popover restaurant in the gallery. Call Judy Volungis at 383-0752 for reservations and information.

Other trips will include a visit to the Gardner Museum with lunch at the MFA private dining room, a trip and hayride at Drumland Farm, a visit to the Forbes Estate for the Decorators' Showcase and a trip to Rockport with lunch at the famous Olean's Restaurant.

Senior Show

Senior Citizens of Cohasset, Norwell, Marshfield and Scituate are invited free to the Thursday night production of the comedy "Room Service" by the Cohasset Dramatic Club.

The performance will be Feb. 15 at 8 p.m. at the Cohasset Town Hall.

METCO Training Institute

Metropolitan Council for Education Opportunities (METCO) is offering a teacher-training institute to be held at So. Jr. High School in Hingham. The courses are divided into two principal groupings — awareness development and skills improvement. Emphasis is on practical application, although, theoretical material will be treated as well. The course is free, but 3 graduate credits are available thru Lester College for tuition of $130. It is open to the public schools as well as the community.

If you are interested in attending this course, please contact Steve Hart at 383-6104.
